The Federal Direct Parent PLUS Loan is offered to the parents of dependent undergraduate students to assist with the dependent student's educational expenses. This loan is only a part of the student's financial aid offer package to inform the student and parent of the maximum amount the parent is eligible to borrow. This loan is a credit-based loan. Therefore, this offer is not a guarantee that this loan will be approved by the federal government. If the parent desires for this loan to be applied to the student's financial aid offer package as accepted, the parent must first complete the Direct Parent PLUS Loan Application on the Department of Education's website at www.studentaid.gov and the credit
